Articles:

1. Find articles online by searching our online databases (see the back for recommendations).
2. If an article is not full-text and you want a copy of it, go to the library’s homepage. In the upper right box that says “Library Links” use the pull-down to select “Journal Subscriptions.” Search for the title of the journal that published the article to see if we have the journal full-text in print or in a different database.
3. If we do not have the full article, some databases will allow you to request the article through Interlibrary Loan right from the citation (EBSCOhost, ProQuest, PsycInfo, Environmental Sciences). Or, use our ‘Interlibrary Loan Article Request form’ on the library’s homepage. The article usually takes a week, or less, to get to you. It will be sent to you electronically. These articles are yours to keep and usually will not cost you anything (we will contact you if there will be a fee). You may contact Interlibrary Loan directly at:
